Opening Remarks / Administrative Activity

Members reviewed and accepted the Summary of Discussion from the August 2, 2016, JCPP meeting. The participants then reviewed the 2017 JCPP meeting schedule and agenda topics for the February 2, 2017 meeting. JCPP members were asked to provide feedback on agenda topics and were reminded that the registration information is on the JCPP website.

Perspectives Post Elections – Considerations for Pharmacy and Healthcare

The Government Affairs Staff from 5 JCPP member organizations presented an overview of the recent national elections and provided their perspective on the election's impact on issues of interest to the profession and healthcare.

CDC and Pharmacy Collaboration on Chronic Disease Management

Representatives from the US Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) (Michael Schooley, MPH – Branch Chief, Applied Research and Evaluation; Peter Briss,MD – Medical Director, Office of the Director; Janet Wright, MD – Associate Director of Medicine, Office of the Director) provided an overview of the work conducted by CDC in regards to disease prevention and control and identified areas where pharmacists can make an impact. These areas included: improving patient outcomes, delivery of interventions, piloting interventions, identifying best practices, and monitoring progress. Dr. Wright provided an update on the Million Hearts and the next phase (2.0) for the initiative. Million Heart accomplishments included reduced smoking, some progress in blood pressure control and statin use, but need further work on reducing sodium intake. In regards to Million Hearts 2.0 there continues to be opportunities for pharmacist engagement as increased attention will be given to addressing particulate exposure, increasing physical activity in addition to optimizing care and outcomes for priority populations. Getting these efforts to communities and the engagement of pharmacists will be critical.

Aggregate Demand Index (ADI) Update

Liz Cardello, President of the Pharmacy Workforce Center (PWC) and David Kreling, ADI Principal Investigator, provided an overview of the work conducted by the Center. She reviewed the work supported by the Center that includes the National Pharmacist Workforce Surveys, National Pharmacy Technician Workforce Surveys, and the Pharmacy Demand Indicator (formerly known as the Pharmacy Aggregate Demand Index). They discussed the outcomes of the National Pharmacist and Pharmacy Technician Surveys. In regards to the Pharmacy Demand Indicator,

What Consumers Want from Pharmacists

Mark Munger, University of Utah, provided insight on the results of research (OptiPharm Study) conducted to model the demand for a range of primary care services to be delivered through pharmacies. The research provides insight into the "optimal" pharmacy configuration that would maximize demand for consumers and pharmacists, and the likelihood of reimbursement by payers. Of the top 5 causes of death in the US, 40% of them are preventable, and therefore provides an opportunity for pharmacists. He emphasized opportunities for pharmacists within the 4 P's: Personalization, Prediction, Prevention and Patient Responsibility. He reported that overall, most consumers are satisfied with current pharmacies, but there is potential for additional services. Their study model looked at consumer, pharmacist and payer opinions. He shared the timeline for future project work and potential use of the work by the JCPP organizations.

Get the Meds Right

Terry McInnis,MD, Principal Investigator on the report entitled "Get the medications right: a nationwide snapshot of expert practices," provided an overview of this report and its findings in regards to Comprehensive Medication Management (CMM). Key findings included: CMM improves clinical outcomes (quality metrics); CMM pays off financially; CMM reduces avoidable care while improving care transitions; physician and executive leadership is key; patients, providers, and pharmacists love CMM; CMM improves patent access and addresses physician workforce shortage; a consistent patient care process is critical; and that CMM works.

Organizational Updates

Each organization provided a written and brief verbal report on the progress they are making in the areas of focus related to the implementation of the JCPP Vision Strategic Plan: Patient Care Process; Pharmacy Quality; Value of Pharmacists' Patient Care Services; HIT; Provider Status Recognition, in addition to other organizational information.

A number of newsletters, journals, and other educational materials from practitioner organizations were provided so that member organizations may better serve pharmacy practitioners and coordinate future projects.

It was announced during the meeting that the JCPP Board of Governors had approved the College of Psychiatric and Neurologic Pharmacists (CPNP) and the Hematology/Oncology Pharmacy Association (HOPA) for JCPP membership.

The next regularly scheduled meeting of JCPP is February 2, 2017; JCPP members were asked to submit feedback on proposed topics for the meeting. Potential topics include provider status update (coalition, HHS direction,etc), Entrustable Professional Activity, Collaborative Practice Toolkit update, dealing with millennials, and PDUFA.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned at 3:22pm.
